MERCHANTS HEAR C. C. SECRETARY

Howard I. Wood Asks for Complete Co-operation In Civic Building

"The great cities of the United States are those that have strong, active Chambers of Commerce, and a strong Chamber of Commerce means powerful allied organizations acting with and in support of the Chamber," declared Howard I. Wood, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, in an address before the Glendale Merchants' association at noon today in the Alley Inn.

"Other organizations," he added, "have their own field to work in, but they cannot assume the functions of a Chamber of Commerce, and a surplus of such organizations may easily mean the death of the Chamber of Commerce."

Need Co-operation
Some way must be found for all civic organizations to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce, he maintained, and the kind of a city and a community that is created depends on the association of ten-year men, and not ten-minute men, with the organizations that are working to develop the city.

Mr. Wood pointed out that the average term of service in California for commercial secretaries is eleven months, a period that is not long enough for the efficient city builder to develop his program and demonstrate his usefulness to the community for which he is working.

Lyman P. Clark, who presided in the absence of Charles J. Hatz, the president, assured Mr. Wood that the Merchants' Association is standing back of the Chamber of Commerce as a unit.

Burbank Delegation
A delegation from the Burbank Credit association, as well as several members of the Burbank Chamber of Commerce, was present as the guests of the local organization, and J. W. Charleville, manager of the latter body, spoke briefly.

Secretary Frank H. Pilling stated that the Board of Trustees would meet tomorrow night at 7:30 in the offices of the association, and the merchants' committee will meet Thursday noon at the Alley Inn.

Mr. Pilling also read a warning from a detective agency warning merchants of the activities of a young man who is said to be defrauding business houses with checks that are alleged to have been removed from the offices of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company.

Works on Week-ends
The checks are made out by a typewriter and bear a rubber stamp signature of one of the officials of the company. The check passer is described as being about 21 years old, weight 180 pounds, 5 feet 11 inches, wears a brown suit, has blue eyes and brown hair, and operates, as a rule, on Saturdays and Sundays, claiming that the checks he issues are either salary checks or that they have been refunded because of the refusal of the company to accept an application for insurance.

W. G. Lauderdale won the attendance prize, which was donated by Cornwell & Kelly, 107 South Brand boulevard.

A number of the members brought guests with them to today's luncheon, as this was the regular open meeting at which every member is supposed to entertain a visitor.

Former Surgeon In China Joins Sanitarium's Staff

Dr. C. C. Landis, for four years chief surgeon of the Red Cross general hospital in Shanghai, China, has come to join the staff at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, as surgeon, in association with Dr. A. W. Truman, medical superintendent at that institution.

A graduate of the College of Medical Evangelists, Dr. Landis has had a wide experience, featured by success in his professional service. He began his surgical work under Dr. George Thomas, surgeon at the White Memorial hospital, Los Angeles, who is to be consulting surgeon of the Glendale institution.

Later Dr. Landis went to China, where he attained well-known success in his clinical work in the Red Cross hospital.

Upon returning to this country he spent some time at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., and later took a year's post-graduate work in Philadelphia.

American Flyers Again Hop Off On World Flight

ON BOARD U. S. CRUISER RICHMOND, Sept. 2.—(By Wireless to International News Service)—Abandoning plans to make a short hop from Indian harbor to Cartwright harbor, the American round-the-world planes were winging their way nearer home this afternoon. Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant Erik Nelson, piloting the round-the-world planes, passed over Cartwright harbor without a stop and at 12:33 p. m. passed the destroyer McFarland, stationed in Hawk's bay, south of Cartwright on the Labrador coast.

Although no definite word has come to the Richmond, it was believed the flyers were heading for Pictou harbor.

The Y. M. C. A. campaign to be held in Glendale September 16 to 23 for the purpose of raising $275,000 for the erection and maintenance of a Y. M. C. A. building here, was endorsed by the members of the Glendale Exchange club at the meeting held today noon at the Harriett Mae tea room.

The endorsement was in the form of a resolution offered by Harry Bennett after Dr. John Anderson, one of the members of the board of directors of the Glendale Y. M. C. A., had outlined the need of a Y. M. C. A. building here.

Dr. Anderson was introduced by Rex Kelley, secretary of the local branch of the Y. M. C. A.

Johnston, president of the club, reported on a meeting held last week at San Francisco when it was decided to try to bring the national convention of Exchange clubs to California in 1925. R. E. Pierce gave a report on the picnic held last Wednesday at Brookside park, and I. B. Carlock told of attending the Long Beach Exchange club luncheon.

It was voted to hold the meetings of the club at the Masonic temple, the first meeting in the new place to be held next Thursday noon.

HEARING FOR RE-ROUTING LINE NO. 2

Committee to Be Named to Confer on Basis for Improved Service

The public hearing before the Glendale City Council this morning on the application of the Pacific Electric Motor Coach service to re-route Line No. 2 was productive of a definite forward step in the development of the northwest section, when O. A. Smith, assessor traffic manager of the Pacific Electric Railway company, agreed to meet a committee from that section at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, September 4, in the office of City Manager Virgil B. Stone, to confer on a basis for additional service.

While this step was accomplished, the matter of re-routing Line No. 2, for which reason the hearing and been set, was productive of no decision, the council voting to continue the hearing at Thursday morning's session, when it is hoped that other vitally interested residents will be present.

Change in Route
The company has applied to the City Council to run the line in question from Grand View avenue and Kenneth road to East Broadway and Verdugo road, going out East Colorado boulevard and returning the same way, whereas this line at present runs out and returns over East Broadway.

C. W. Ingledue was present and spoke against the proposed re-routing. He said it would hurt business in the Glendale avenue-Broadway section, and suggested instead a loop, running out Colorado and returning over Broadway.

Mr. Smith of the Pacific Electric Motor Coach service said this was impracticable.

Majority for Change
J. A. Birmingham, manager of the coach service, was also present and spoke briefly. A number of representatives of residents from that section also addressed the council, most of them favoring the proposed change, which they believe will mean added convenience for them.

Councilman S. A. Davis introduced a motion that the city attorney confer with the city manager, the city engineer, the superintendent of plant and production and the street superintendent, with a view to drafting a resolution that will tend to limit ornamental street lighting to streets where there are a reasonable number of houses per block. The motion was seconded and unanimously passed.

Grant Set-Back
The council granted the ten-foot set-back line on East Lomita avenue to Louise street, as recommended last night at the regular weekly meeting of the City Planning commission. An ordinance ordering the widening of Tyler street was passed. An invitation from the Burbank Chamber of Commerce, inviting the mayor, City Council and other city officials to be present in the neighboring city on September 9, the opening day of the San Fernando valley industrial exposition, was read and accepted.

BASEBALL RESULTS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Bob Schang, catcher of the Sacramento, today was suspended for three days and fined $10 and Manager Charley Pick of the City team club yesterday suspended, as a result of yesterday's fight in the Sacramento-Los Angeles game here in which Pick slugged Tyler street.

It was said Pick will be suspended for two weeks or more and fined $100.

DEFINING OF 'SECURITY' PROBLEM

British Premier Says League Of Nations Must Decide Meaning of Term

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.
LONDON, Sept. 2.—The biggest question to be decided at Geneva is defining the term "security" so that a world conference can be summoned to treat of security and disarmament simultaneously, declared Premier Ramsay MacDonald today as he departed to attend the League of Nations meeting.

"The first thing to do at Geneva is to define security in plain terms," MacDonald declared in a special statement to International News Service. "It is no use to employ vague expressions such as security which might mean different things to different peoples and build up from that false foundation."

Favors Arbitration
"The security of a nation is not necessarily threatened from the outside. I know many nations today whose internal policy threatens their own security and their security does not depend upon the violence of their neighbor."

"If you build up such a foundation your work comes to naught. In the meantime, if possible, we should go forward by means of arbitration which is the surest method under present conditions."

"In ten years' time, if you build upon such conditions as now exist you will have people arming to the teeth as the only means of keeping the peace. It is clear that definition of the word security is requisite for any real, lasting solution of the problem."

Confidence In League
"Proportional or total disarmament can never be had in the trust and fullest measure until you have a world conference discussing the subject from a single point of view with the term security clearly defined before you begin their work."

"I feel very keenly the importance of the league. I decided to go to Geneva not for the purpose of making speeches, although I probably will have something to say, but for the purpose to try and demonstrate by my presence how much confidence I have myself in the league."

Favors Conference
Owing to the refusal of the United States to participate in the sessions of the third committee of the league for the drafting of a disarmament treaty, Premier MacDonald feels that an international conference will be necessary.

The premier is going to Geneva to urge that world conference be called after the ground work has been laid for it by the league.

Plan to Adjust Rail Disputes Advocated

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—President Coolidge believes that the abolition of the United States rail labor board, which has been under consideration in and out of Congress for the past two years, should be accompanied by the establishment of a substitute plan for the adjustment of railway labor disputes, it was declared officially at the White House this afternoon.

The new plan, according to a spokesman for the president, should be worked out by the rail-road management and their employees and then submitted to Congress for approval.

Auto Finance

J. V. REA, banker, who today announces the formation of an automobile finance concern for this city, located at 128 West Wilson avenue.

An organization founded to make automobile loans direct to individuals is the J. V. Rea Investment Co., which opened today at 128 West Wilson avenue. J. V. Rea of 225 West Burchett street, who heads this company, is well known in Glendale as the co-founder with C. C. Cooper of the Federal Commercial and Savings bank, with branches at 144 North Brand boulevard and 612 East Broadway.

Previous to this, for some years, Mr. Rea was owner of the First National bank of Colton. He sold out his interests in this bank to associate himself with Mr. Cooper and became vice president of the Federal Commercial and Savings bank.

Sells Bank Interests
Some three months back he disposed of his interests in the local institution, he states, with a view to opening up an automobile finance concern, believing that Glendale was in need of such a medium of service to the individual in need of a small loan.

When Mr. Rea decided to enter the automobile finance field he looked over not only all of Southern California but many parts of the middle west, and finally concluded that this city offers the best opportunity for development of any he visited. Being so close to Los Angeles, as he explains it, Glendale is bound to grow at a rapid rate for many years, and all lines of business endeavor will continue to be good.

Aid to Car Owner
"Glendale needs such an institution as the J. V. Rea Investment company," he says. "There are plenty of facilities for the financing of automobile agencies, paper, but heretofore the individual who wished to borrow a moderate sum of money and had a car as security had not always been able to do so. We will also rewrite existing contracts with private owners, assist in financing private sales, write automobile insurance, buy automobile contracts and in some instances trust deeds as well."

As a banker of many years' experience, Mr. Rea feels himself well qualified for entrance into this new department of finance.

San Gabriel Canyon Fire Under Control

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Angels forest's worst fire in several years was partially under control today when 500 weary men managed to halt the progress of the disastrous brush fire raging in the vicinity of San Gabriel canyon. Since Sunday, the blaze has burned over a strip of territory fifteen miles long and eight miles wide, and was threatening the destruction of thousands of acres of heavily wooded land when fire crews, aided by a lull in the wind, succeeded in checking the flame's advance.

Fresh fire fighters rushed from Monrovia and Sierra Madre were fighting desperately to prevent the flames from burning through Devil's canyon and Chileno canyon, which would give the blaze access to a popular recreation area in which, forestry officials believe, there would be little hope of checking the fire.

Police Shoot Thief Who Refuses to Halt

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Two police officers shot and killed Ramon Hernandez, 21, here today, when he refused to surrender after being caught looting an automobile.

PRINCE OUT ALL NIGHT AT DANCE

Royal Visitor Returns From Party at 6 A. M., Clearing Up Deep Mystery

By ROLAND KREBS
For International News Service.

SYOSSET, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Edward Albert, Great Britain's jazz loving prince, danced all night at the home of Devereaux Milburn, well known polo player, at Wheatley Hills, and returned to the James A. Burden estate, where he is living, on Long Island, at 6 o'clock this morning, tired but serenely happy.

Eagle-eyed newspapermen were mystified early today when they discovered that the prince had returned to the Burden home at 6 o'clock, and numerous rumors of where and how he had spent the night were broadcast, but no one knew just where he had been until members of his party, in explaining why he was sleeping so late, revealed that he fox-trotted until the wee sma's hours.

Mystery Results
About fifteen members of the fashionable younger set attended the dance. Who the debs and sub-debs were who danced with "Prince Charming" is not known. Wales left the Burden home for dinner at the Milburns at 6 o'clock last night, accompanied only by Spencer Carlton, his personal body guard from Scotland Yard. Later it was said that he had not appeared at the Milburn home for dinner and the mystery, just cleared up this morning, began.

Busy With Mail
Today was "mail day" at the Burden estate and the royal visitor and members of his party were preparing their letters for the next mail ship leaving for England. There was also a large batch of mail in from Europe, as well as the daily mass of "mash notes" with which the prince has been favored since his arrival.

The mail, it was said, would keep the prince occupied throughout the forenoon and until 5 o'clock this afternoon. He might also use some of the time, it was admitted, to catch up on the sleep missed last night.

After 5 o'clock the program called for polo practice at the V. R. Grace field, followed by dinner at the estate of Henry R. Winthrop.

Stage Near-Riot
The demonstration at Belmont park yesterday when the prince was almost mobbed by excited stable boys and society women, who struggled for a close-up of him, will have no effect on plans for his other public appearances in America, according to Inspector Carlson of Scotland Yard.

There are only two possible occasions when the royal visitor will have to brave curious American crowds. One is at the international polo matches and later at a yacht races some time within the next two weeks.

The prince will meet the ordeals without extra guards, Inspector Carlson said.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—President Coolidge today sent a message of sympathy to the governor of the Virgin Islands, following the hurricane which caused heavy loss of life and property damage there. NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Seven deaths and scores of heat prostrations had been counted this afternoon in the heat wave which has gripped New York for the past thirty-six hours.

Two of the deaths were directly due to prostration, and five were swimmers, who found death in the waters they had sought to avoid the heat.

At 1 o'clock the thermometer registered 86 and was slowly mounting.

JOHNSTON FAILS TO BEAT TILDEN

Little Bill Is Unable to Take Tennis Title Away From Big Bill

FOREST HILLS, N. J., Sept. 2.—Little Bill Johnston tried again this afternoon to win the national singles championship from Big Bill Tilden of Philadelphia, and again he failed, this time Tilden winning by scores of 6-1, 9-7 and 6-2. It was the sixth time the rivals for America's tennis crown had battled for topmost honors, and only in the first of these meetings has Johnston, the Californian, who once held full sway in the world of tennis, been successful.

Loses Right Ear In Wreck of Automobile

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 2.—B. H. Hartwell, of Venice, today was suffering the loss of his right ear as the result of an automobile accident on the state highway at Del Mar. Hartwell, according to reports received here, was returning north with Francis Hartwell and Ross Arnold, both of Venice, when a front wheel of the machine collapsed, throwing the car on its side and Hartwell to the cement highway.

In striking the ground Hartwell is said to have laid on the side of his head, tearing off his ear. He was rushed to the La Jolla sanitarium where his injury was said not to be so dangerous as it was painful. The others in the machine were uninjured.

EUROPEAN MAINS FOR EAGLE ROCK

Belgian-Made Pipe to Carry
Water is Installed in City System

EAGLE ROCK, Sept. 2.—The six-inch iron water mains now being laid along Oak Grove drive in the southeast section of this community, are imported from Belgium. They were manufactured at Liege, where was located one of the first forts to fall under the historic German advance of 1914.

The quality of the big pipe is said to be excellent, being unusually free of "bubbles" and other defects common in such iron pipe. The laying of gas mains on Oak Grove drive and Oak Grove circle through the Allen and Silverwood tracts will be commenced at once, and the gas company also has announced its intention to provide capacity and pressure sufficient to handle the heavy load that will follow the Happy Land hill development.

Plan Extension
As soon as practicable, the city will extend the large water main eastward to Annandale boulevard, replacing the two-inch main heretofore serving that section.

This new pipe will be entirely adequate, it is said, to give abundant pressure and volume to homes on Avenue 51 and the streets on the hillside and hilltop.

Ample provision also has been made for fire protection in this locality, by the installing of fire hydrants at Vincent street, Townsend avenue, Oak Grove street and Lololeta avenue.

A series of extremely interesting and beneficial noon meetings opened yesterday at the Congregational church, Eagle Rock.

Rev. Agnes J. Galer of Seattle, Washington, nationally known as a teacher and lecturer of recognized ability and power, is delivering these talks at the noon hour. They will be given for five days only. The public is invited.

Mrs. Alma T. Richardson, Ruth Thompson and Eve Richardson of Avenue 46, were the house guests of Mrs. L. I. Richardson at Long Beach over the week end. Mrs. Richardson entertained with a dinner for eighteen guests in honor of her little daughter Marian Louise, whose first birthday was celebrated. Mrs. C. I. Richardson is the daughter-in-law of Mrs. A. T. Richardson of Eagle Rock.

Pioneer Woman Sees First Motion Picture

MERCED, Sept. 2.—Mrs. John Ruddle, eighty-three years of age, celebrated her birthday anniversary by breaking a life-long rule against attending theatrical performances, and saw her first motion picture, which was one depicting the hardships of the prairie schooner pioneers in 1848. As Elizabeth Hardwick, eighty-eight years of age, Mrs. Ruddle left St. Joseph in 1859 in a wagon train with her parents for California. Three other members of that pioneer party survive, one of whom, Mrs. Amanda Rector, mother of Superior Judge E. N. Rector of Merced, and 95 years of age, attended the film presentation with Mrs. Ruddle.

Balloon Punctured By Silent Marksman

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—Swaying and tugging at the rope which held it at an altitude of one thousand feet, a gigantic advertising balloon today suddenly began to shrivel and in a few minutes sank to earth near Thirtieth and M streets.

"Investigation developed the fact that some marksman had punctured it with nine bullets. Since no report of a gun was heard it is supposed the weapon was equipped with a "silencer."

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, Sept. 2.—Miss E. Lahard has returned to her home in Sioux City after spending the summer vacation with her sister, Mrs. G. Sechler, of West Montrose.

Miss Evelyn Sears of Verdugo City has returned from an enjoyable visit to her relatives in San Pedro.

Friends of Simon Bickel of West Montrose avenue were delighted to welcome him once more to the La Crescenta Community church, of which he is one of the elders. Mr. Bickel has been confined to his home for several months on account of illness and this is his first trip out.

A charming tea given on Saturday afternoon by Mrs. C. E. Culbertson added the sum of $23.40 to the roof fund of the new church of St. Luke of the Mountain. A novel feature of the tea was the quaint little model of the church roof which held the liberal offerings of the guests. During the afternoon Mrs. Robert Rohen of Los Angeles, accompanied by Miss Leonore Reno of Flintridge, sang "Lindy Lou" and as an encore, "By the Waters of Minnetonka." Mrs. Culbertson was assisted in serving by Mrs. Fred Anderson of Montrose, who presided at the tea urn, and Mesdames A. W. Brown, M. S. Collins, T. Minford of Verdugo Knolls, C. A. Haskins and her daughter, Miss Janet Culbertson. Next Saturday day the series of teas for the roof fund at her home Seek No Further.

The sermon at the La Crescenta Community church on Sunday was preached for Labor Day as appointed by the pastor, Rev. R. Kelso. Next Sunday when the regular evening services are resumed for the fall there will be a special service and program.

Friday afternoon the Ladies' Missionary Society of the church enjoyed a splendid address given by Mrs. J. W. McClelland of the Presbyterian organization of missionary work. Rev. Kelso extends a cordial invitation to all in the valley who have no church affiliations to attend the Community church on West Montrose avenue.

The seventh day of the building their church home in La Crescenta valley on the corner of Rosemont avenue on the new street which has not yet been named, but is one block south of Montrose avenue. The lot was purchased last summer and the revival meetings held in the winter sessions; Thursday the members of St. Luke's of the Mountain guild will hold their first meeting of the fall, at the La Crescenta hotel at 2:30 o'clock promptly. On Thursday night the La Crescenta Improvement association will meet at the La Crescenta school house at 8 o'clock. All interested citizens of La Crescenta valley are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

The La Crescenta Feed & Fuel Co., owned and operated by the Benito brothers, has been improved in a high board fence on the Montrose avenue side of the property, where the wood yard is situated.

BURBANK, Sept. 2.—A four-story building is to be erected by George Luttre at the corner of San Fernando boulevard and Bethany road. The cost will not be announced until after the contract has been let.

The nature of the building will be stores and apartments, the ground floor being made into five business rooms and the upper floors, of which there will be two over the entire building and three on the corner, will be given over to 27 apartments. "Whereas, a large class of citizens believe the Bible narrative of the creation and fall of man in Eden, and this belief is of fundamental importance in their religious faith, therefore

Protest State's Action
"Resolved, that we protest against the action of the state of California in taxing this class of its citizens for the propagation of ideas repugnant to their religious faith; and express our conviction that this is an injustice which embodies the obnoxious principle of state religion, to which American principles of government are opposed; and that considerations of justice and of good policy demand that the state keep religious questions and controversies out of its public schools, and do all in its power to make these institutions such as all classes of citizens can unreservedly commend and support."

KLANSMEN ADMIT 350 NEW ALIENS

Naturalization Ceremony Is Held at Brand Airport
By Local Klavern

Under the auspices of Glendale Provisional Klan No. 1, a class of 350 new members was naturalized in the order at the ceremonies that were held last night at the airport on the L. C. Brand estate, and at which about 3000 members of the order were present. A crowd estimated at close to 15,000 watched the initiation ceremonies that were conducted under the glare of two immense searchlights.

Massing at Colorado street and Central avenue, the Klansmen paraded through the business section of Glendale on foot, led by a squad bearing the American flag and singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and then proceeded in automobiles to the scene of the initiation where the "aliens" were inspected and questioned by the members of the order, who were acting under the direction of Kludge E. L. Shaw.

Mr. Westbrook was also taken to the Glendale Research hospital where he was treated for a bad gash on his knee. COUPLE WED AT HOME CEREMONY

Miss Elodia Estine Groves
Becomes Bride of Ernest Clifton

One of the prettiest of the late August weddings was that of Miss Elodia Estine Groves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Groves of 425 Ivy street, and Ernest Clifton, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Clifton of 3240 Orilla avenue, Los Angeles, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents on Saturday night, August 30, 1924, at 8 o'clock, before a group of relatives and close friends of the bride and groom.

A tower of late summer flowers and ferns formed an artistic background for the wedding ceremony. Mrs. Abbott, an intimate friend of the bride, played the Lohengrin wedding march for the entrance of the bridal couple.

Informal Reception
Miss Groves wore a bridal gown of cream lace over white silk. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and maidenhair fern. She also wore a beautiful wrist watch, a gift from Mr. Clifton.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held, when Mr. and Mrs. Clifton received the hearty congratulations and best wishes of those present. Later they left by motor for a trip through the mountains. Upon their return they will make their home at 207 1/2 North Kenwood street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Clifton are popular among the young people of Glendale. Mr. Clifton is associated with the Southern California Gas company of this city.

Dr. A. W. Truman of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital left last night for the St. Helena sanitarium, near San Francisco, where he will deliver the commencement address at the nurses' training school. He expects to return to Glendale on Thursday.

1—Barbara La Marr; 2—May McAvoy; 3—Pearl White; 4—Norma Talmadge; 5—Viola Dana; 6—Mary Pickford; 7—Corinne Griffith; 8—Colleen Moore; 9—Constance Talmadge; 10—Pola Negri—if the best points of these were combined, the result would be the perfect motion picture actress, says Maurice Tourneur.

Dr. and Mrs. Truman are having the pleasure of entertaining as their guest for several weeks, his father, J. G. Truman of Boulder, Colo.

Maurice Tourneur, the French-American creator of photoplays, is looking for the perfect motion picture actress, but without any expectancy of finding her.

"It's fun to hope," he opines. Maurice thinks he would recognize her if he saw her. She would have, he specifies:

THE DRAMATIC FERVOR of Norma Talmadge;

PETER-PANISM of Mary Pickford;

WHIMSICALITY of Constance Talmadge;

BEAUTY of May McAvoy;

DARING of Barbara La Marr;

COMEDY of Viola Dana;

TRIP TO MEXICO PROVES PLEASING

Party of Glendale People
Back From Brief Visit
To Quaint Town

The party of Glendale people who spent the week-end at Ensenada, Lower California, Mexico, arrived back in Glendale yesterday afternoon, without mishap, thrilled by what they declare is one of the most picturesque trips they have ever taken.

There were in the party Richardson D. White, superintendent of city schools, Mrs. White and their daughter, Helen; John T. Cate, business manager of the city schools, and Mrs. Cate; and Mr. and Mrs. Rue E. Downing and their two nieces, the Misses Ruth and Helen Sprowls of Phoenix, Ariz.

Camp in City Park
They left Glendale Friday afternoon and spent that night at San Diego, making the run to Ensenada the next morning. Finding all available hotel accommodations taken, they camped over night in the beautiful little city park, with a score of other visiting motorists from the United States. They started back Sunday morning and camped Sunday night at Oceanside, continuing on to Glendale yesterday.

Mr. White, in outlining his impressions of Ensenada, comments particularly on the friendliness of the people and the quaintness of the atmosphere of the little Mexican town. There were many Americans there for the week-end, he states, and a carnival spirit prevailed.

H. L. Miller Corrects Error In Statement

Someone in the advertising department, now absent on a vacation, slipped into type in H. L. Miller's display advertisement in The Glendale Evening News last week that Mr. Miller had been in the fire insurance business for nearly fifty years.

Mr. Miller owns the distinction of being one of the veteran insurance men in this part of the country, but declares that twenty-seven years will cover his labors along that line. You see, this sprightly looking gentleman is scarcely old enough to have given service in any line of work for fifty years.

APPROVE 10-FOOT LOMITA SETBACK

Planning Commission Votes
To Support Plea of Majority Petition

The City Planning commission last night approved the majority petitions of Lomita avenue property owners, for a 10-foot setback line on this thoroughfare, from Glendale avenue to Louise street, instead of the present 25-foot setback line. The meeting was held at the City Hall, President T. W. Watson presiding.

Jesse E. Smith spoke on behalf of the Knights of Columbus, whose clubhouse is located at 320 East Lomita avenue, urging that the 10-foot setback line be recommended by the commission to the City Council. He named as a parallel case Elk avenue, where a 10-foot setback line has been established at the request of a majority of the property owners.

Postpone Hearings
The matter of establishing grades on Fourth street was again postponed, at the request of the Fourth Street Improvement association, whose president, J. H. Randall, is a member of the City Planning commission.

The commissioners will hold a hearing next Monday on petitions for commercial districts at Wilson street and Broadway, and on Tenth street between Thompson and Western avenues, it was announced last night.

Members of the City Planning commission present at the meeting last night were: T. W. Watson, president; Harry Hakue, S. T. Kitch and J. H. Randall.

SCHOOL TEACHERS RETURNING HOME

Miss Isabel Stevens and Mrs. Ethel Bailey Are Coming From Europe

In anticipation of the opening of the Glendale Union high school, Miss Isabel Stevens, head, and Mrs. Ethel Bailey, teacher of French, of the language department, are now on their way home from a European trip.

Their many friends will be glad to learn that the Cunard liner, the Ansonia, on which they were making the trans-Atlantic trip, landed safely at Quebec, after weathering heavy storms prevalent on the Atlantic. The boat was delayed one day, arriving in Quebec on Saturday. Miss Stevens and Mrs. Bailey arrived in Montreal on Sunday, and expect to reach Southern California Friday of this week.

Live Cheaper Abroad

Miss Stevens went abroad last February and has spent the time touring Europe, especially Italy, Spain and France.

Mrs. Bailey started on her trip at the close of school in June. She has spent the summer in France, sightseeing, studying at the Sorbonne, enjoying opera and theatres and trips to places famous in French history.

They report that they were able to live much more cheaply in Paris than in the United States.

Safety for Things You Hold Dear

—Stocks and bonds are not the only things that call for the sure protection of a safety deposit box.

—You have other possessions—heirlooms and priceless tokens—the loss of which would cut deeper, perhaps, than the loss of replaceable securities.

—Think what it would mean to you if these treasures were destroyed by fire or stolen by thieves.

—Do not run the risk of such a misfortune a single day longer. Rent a box in our fire and burglar-proof vault now. Then, whatever happens, you will know that its contents are safe.

NOTHING IS EASIER—
Than blackening a reputation through insinuations.

BROADMINDED OR FLABBY?

People look with complacency today upon habits and customs they would not have tolerated a dozen years ago. Some young people feel that it is clever to be profane and that ridiculing religion is the proper thing to do. They call this being broadminded. In their minds any who disapprove of such an attitude are bigoted or hypocritical.

Michael Arlen, a young Armenian writer, touches on this point in a short story, "The Ancient Sin." He says, "In the middle ages men swore mightily on the names of the Trinity and the Saints, but then they believed mightily in the Trinity and the Saints. Now men swear and curse on the names of everything and believe in nothing. It is the habit of the modern world; it is the habit of being in a hurry; it is the habit of unhappiness."

One of Arlen's characters, an old man, is flogging his son for having committed the unpardonable sin (blasphemy). Other characters discuss the incident thus:

"I wonder," I heard myself whisper, "what was the one sin the old man said was unpardonable?"

"I don't know," he whispered back. "You and I, Ralph, and our friends, have become so civilized that we don't know what the unpardonable sins are. We simply don't know, old man! We are the world's soft people, Ralph. We are so civilized that we pardon too much—both in ourselves and other people; and we call that being broadminded, but it's really being flabby. But that old man, I'm sure, was not broadminded, he was as little broadminded as Jehovah, and there was one sin he simply would not pardon. And we, who are civilized people, do not even know what it was."

CRITICISM VS. SCORN

Honest criticism is helpful to those who accept it and profit by it, but scorn aids no one. We have in this country a little crowd of scorners who call themselves critics with whom we could well dispense.

The most of us are crude and uncultured. But we are not satisfied with ourselves as we are. We have aspirations toward higher things and richer experiences in life. We realize our limitations when it comes to appreciation of the best in literature, art and music. But we study, we travel when we can, we join literary, music and art clubs and we try to broaden ourselves. But these impatient critics scorn our misdirected efforts. They see our crudity and they grow sarcastic because we aspire to appreciate what is good and great. They deride our efforts to improve our minds and scorn us when what we need is help. They seem to take the attitude that we are inferior beings, and that reaching out for better things on our part is all a joke.

These critics may be the only intelligent and cultured people in the world. They say so and we have to believe them, for we are not capable of judging for ourselves. Even so, they do the world not one whit of good. Their literature and their art will die with them, because there will be no one left to appreciate it. Why do they not try to teach us how to attain the things for which we long and which they alone enjoy? Why do they leave us living on Main Street when they could lead us out into the world of culture? It may be that they see there is no hope for us. Then why do they not extend a little sympathy? It would make life easier for us who are doomed to everlasting inferiority and mediocrity.

AIM AT 100 PER CENT VOTE

Everywhere people are becoming aroused to the danger of the growing apathy on the part of the voter, although the small vote at the recent primary election in this state did not indicate much alarm. But newspapers, magazines and clubs in many localities throughout the country have taken the matter up and are pledging themselves to get out a 75 per cent vote or a 90 per cent vote as the case may be.

"Not failure but low aim is crime," so the Glendale Evening News has set a 100-per-cent vote as the goal for Glendale. Every citizen has three duties to perform between now and November 4: To register if he has not already done so; to inform himself as best he can as to the merits of the candidates; and to go to the polls and vote according to his best judgment.

The time for talking is past. Everyone knows that his right of franchise is not only a sacred privilege but a duty, and that to neglect it is a shame. The time for action has come. The Glendale Evening News asks the aid of every organization and every loyal citizen in getting out a 100-per-cent vote in Glendale November 4. If you are already a confirmed voter you can bring some one else to the polls.

WEMBLEY EXPOSITION PROFITABLE

The British Empire exposition at Wembley is said to have created a great many friends for England. With parts of Africa, Australia, India and Canada reproduced in detail at great cost the exhibit was instructive not only to the English people and their colonists but to visitors as well, and the result must be beneficial and far-reaching for England.

Perhaps more Americans visited England this summer than ever before at one time. With the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World in session in London and the members of the American Bar Association making a pilgrimage to the same place later in the summer, thousands of Americans had the opportunity to visit the exposition where they got a glimpse of the vastness of the British empire and of her resources.

There is no better way to bring about good will and understanding among nations than for the people to visit each other and become acquainted.

DISCUSS INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The Institute of Politics held at Williamstown, Mass., during the month of August brought together a remarkable group of American and European political and economic experts, financiers and others interested and informed on the subject of international relations. The conference was unofficial but cannot be without good effect, since the discussions brought out so much that was vital to the world. The London conference and the working of the Daves plan were discussed at length, and this group of experts were optimistic as to the success of the plan. Vital world problems and questions involving foreign relations and the advancement of world peace were discussed.

ONE MUST PUSH AND ONE MUST PULL

The Span of Life

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The span of life at best is very brief.

At most it includes but seventy or eighty years of activity; as the psalmist said, "The days of man are three score years and ten, yet, if by reason of strength they be four score years, yet is it labor and sorrow."

It is characteristic of men that they live as though they would exist forever and lend themselves, fictitiously, a span of life which they artificially create.

Yet, after all, the difference between the most aged and the infant who dies new-born, is not great. About all that can be done here is to set our house in order, if there be anything for which to set it in order, and if there be no future life, the most of us will be disappointed.

The other day Mr. Alvey August Adee died at the age of eighty-three, the oldest American diplomat.

And yet those who approach this age feel more and more the rapidity with which time elapses. In youth, time seems to be eternal and the motto of youth is that tomorrow "will be as this day and much more abundant."

But, as we increase in age and feel the years slipping from us, there is borne in upon us a sense of the frailty and uncertainty of our days. We are made to feel, more and more, the brevity of life.

The continuity of the human race depends very largely upon custom and the hold of tradition. If one were to come back to France, for instance, after being away for a hundred years, he would not find the same people at all, yet they would be Frenchmen.

Everyone has felt, at some time or other, how strange it is that of all the people he sees about him, in one hundred years not one will continue, yet the earth will be as full as ever.

It is the human race that goes on from year to year and not the individual life. One by one we drop out, yet the race continues.

It is the genius in which Nature seems to be most interested. While she is careless of the single instance, she is only careful of the type. What happens to the single soul we do not know, but there is persistent belief in its continuance in another life. But what happens to the race we do know. Barring untoward accidents, it will go on forever.

In our thinking we identify ourselves with the age of Jesus and of Julius Caesar, forgetting that the people of that time have long ago disappeared and that the present is a new group.

But the disappearance of the individuals has been so gradual, and there has been such a lapping over of one generation to the next, that we retain our consciousness of the integrity of humanity.

Letters From Election Day Aliens

Some reasons why men and women do not vote

Editor The Evening News:—In reply to your inquiry as to why I did not vote at the primary, I ask you what good would it do me to vote? How could my vote keep the rascals out of office and the rottenness out of politics? The whole bunch are crooks. If one crook don't get in, another one will, so why should I worry? The whole system is wrong, if you know what I mean. When the people of this country get ready for clean government and square politics then you will find me ready to do my part. When the different parties get ready to put up some good honest men, I'll be right there to vote for them, but not before. The way things are now there is no incentive for a good citizen to vote.

As I look at the matter, voting is a lot of trouble for nothing under present conditions. Fellows like me don't have a chance to get any of the graft. I'm a good, honest, patriotic guy and would I get any of the rake-off if I did help some bird to get elected? I should say not. It is always some crook and grafter that gets elected to office. It is grafter anyway. That's all they want—a chance to graft off on honest people. Why should I help to elect that kind of a party anyway, I ask you?

What difference will it make whether I vote in November or not? Am I so foolish as to believe that my vote would not amount to anything even if I cared who was elected? Some one will be elected anyway, and as long as they are all crooks, what does it matter who gets in? Coolidge and Davis will do what the big bugs tell them to, and Bob La Follette is in the race just for what he can get out of it for himself. Some times it disgusts an honest man and makes him feel like getting out of the country and going some place where politics are not so rotten and where a real patriotic guy has a chance to show his stuff.

What's one vote anyway? Yours for clean politics,
D. I. S. GRUNTLED.

Thirst Crazed Colt Is Slain by Coyotes

WINNEMUCCA, Sept. 2.—A tragedy of the desert was disclosed today when three local residents who made a search for a colt which was reported crazed from thirst within a few miles of this city, found that it had been torn to pieces during the night by coyotes.

County Clerk J. W. Davey and his son, Gordon, who were traveling in an auto the previous day, reported the animal staggered to the machine. They gave it all the water in their canteen, which perceptibly revived it. The driver of a truck traveling ahead of them also gave the suffering animal all the water he had, and on arrival here made plans for its rescue.

The mother was now more to be seen, and it is supposed she met the same fate as the colt, after the two animals had wandered apart while crazed with thirst.

Horoscope

Although Neptune is in beneficent aspect today, according to astrology, the planetary rule is not a fortunate one. Uranus, Venus and the Sun are all adverse.

Again there will be much erroneous judgment regarding public affairs and persons should be wary of wrong opinions.

Propaganda of many sorts will have convincing power at this time, no matter what the character may be, for human minds will be exceedingly susceptible.

Women should be especially cautious in forming their conclusions, while this rule prevails.

It is held to be an unfavorable government under which to transact business with women and for that reason political activities may not be successful.

There is a sign read as indicating the tightening of the between men who hold political power and this is not an auspicious time for independent action.

There is a sinister aspect for theaters and again many changes in management are forecast.

The coming season will bring into prominence many new theatrical stars and will be good for those of American birth.

Jupiter today has a sinister warning for railways, which probably will be forced to make increased expenditures.

Unusual thunder storms may be expected in certain parts of the country.

Venus is in a place read as exceedingly beneficial to art, but many unworthy persons will seek artistic pursuits.

Death of a famous woman is indicated before Thanksgiving time and there will be much mourning for her.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have more or less trouble with business matters in the coming year, but they can overcome all difficulties. It will be wise to avoid romance.

Children born on this day may be inclined to be careless and indifferent regarding details. These subjects of Virgo should be wisely taught and carefully disciplined.

Who's Who

While but twenty-seven years old, young Hugo Stinnes is now the owner of the estate of hundreds of millions that belonged to the great German industrialist. He is thus described by Dr. Ludwig Stein, German publicist, discussing European politics in Hearst's International magazine:

"I first met young Stinnes in 1915. He was eighteen, shy, reticent and reserved, but extraordinarily mature and intelligent. I talked with him a long time, and enjoyed the conversation at least as much as he did."

"The next day I saw his father and he said, 'Junior is much brighter and abler than I am,' adding that 'some day the young man would succeed to the control of the Stinnes interests.'"

"If young Stinnes knows much about business it is because he was always in such close touch with his father. He was the custom of the elder Stinnes to hold nightly conferences with his wife, son and daughters, during which he would speak with the utmost freedom of his business plans and prospects. These conferences perhaps did not mean much to the ladies, but they enabled young Hugo to see exactly how his father went about it to carry on his great enterprises."

"During the war, young Stinnes was sent by his father to Scandinavia on innumerable secret errands of business and politics. For months in succession he was on trains, between Berlin and Stockholm, most of the time, and on errands he conferred with bankers, statesmen and diplomats. To them he must have appeared like a youth. But it is indicative of his temperament and his ability that he gained both the respect of those with whom he conferred and the undisguised appreciation of his father. On these errands, young Stinnes always made good. He accomplished what his father wished him to do."

More Dangerous Omissions

"Have you noticed how Daddies drops his aspirates?"

"Yes, but that's nothing to the way he drops his vowels. I've more than a dozen of his I. O. U.'s"—London Tid-Bits.

Today's Poem

SONG

My silks and fine array,
My smiles and languished air,
By love are driven away;
And mournful lean Despair
Brings me yew to deck my grave;
Such end true lovers have.

His face is fair as heaven
When springing buds unfold;
O why to him was't given,
Whose heart is wintry cold?
His breast is Love's all-worshipped tomb,
Where all Love's pilgrims come.

Bring me an ax and spade,
Bring me a winding sheet;
When I my grave have made,
Let winds and tempests beat;
Then down I'll lie, as cold as clay:
True love doth pass away!

—William Blake.

Smiles

He Knew

A colored soldier was walking post for the first time in his life. A dark form approached him. "Halt!" he cried in a threatening tone. "Who are you?"

"The officer of the day."

"Advance!"

The O. D. advanced, but before he had proceeded half a dozen steps the dusky sentinel again cried "Halt!"

"This is the second time you've halted me," observed the O. D. "What are you going to do next?"

"Never you mind what Ah's gonna do. Ma orders are to call 'Halt!' three times, den shoot."—Everybody's Magazine.

Going Strong

A draft of Missouri mules had just arrived at the corral, and one new buck private made the common but sad mistake of approaching too near the business end of one of them. His comrades caught him on the rebound, placed him on a stretcher and started him for the hospital.

On the way the invalid regained consciousness, gazed at

Enter Large Family In Contest at Fair

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—Competition for the automobile offered by the local Chamber of Commerce for the largest family present at the California state fair, which opened at the fair grounds, August 31, was started today when Mr. and Mrs. Elias Montoya of Los Angeles, with twelve children, ranging in age from eighteen years to four months, signed the roll of contestants.

Montoya is a naturalization agent for the Pacific Electric railroad in the southern city and brought a letter of introduction from Mayor George Cryer of Los Angeles.

YEAR WASTE OF FOOD $700,000,000 ATTEMPT TO STOP FREE AUTO RIDES

Carelessness of Housewives Largely to Blame, Is Economists' Claim

It is estimated that waste in the American kitchen represented the startling total of seven hundred million dollars per annum, or an average of thirty-five dollars per family per year.

This loss, economists declare, is for the most part due to carelessness on the part of twenty million American housewives who buy and prepare the food consumed in homes.

One of the chief features contributing to this loss is the failure to protect food after it reaches the kitchen. Refrigerators are frequently over-stuffed, and the ice chambers permitted to run so low that warm temperature results in food spoilings. Inquiries have shown that a considerable ice loss comes from the indiscriminate opening of the refrigerator door.

How to Cut Losses

The average housewife can do much toward reducing this loss by following a few simple rules in the use of her refrigerator. The ice chamber should be well filled at all times. Ice should not be wrapped in paper or cloths, but allowed to remain uncovered so as to permit a free circulation of cold air. The refrigerator door should be opened as few times as possible. If every housewife would put these rules into practice the result would be an appreciable reduction in the huge annual loss, an amount equal to the sum collected by the government as personal income tax.

Other causes entering into the aggregate loss include overstocking of perishable foods, throwing away cold food which is kept fresh could be made into palatable dishes and served a second time, and the use of window boxes and coolers instead of refrigerators contributes largely to this loss.

Traction Interests In Plea To Motorists to Cease Giving People 'Lifts'

By J. C. ROYLE

Special correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924 NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Ride freely but not free. That is the request that traction interests all over the country are urging on the public. The street railway companies have at least come to recognize the loss and danger to their interests represented by the cadgers of automobile rides and are asking motorists to abandon the attitude of easy good nature so frequently imposed on for consideration of the rights of others in the transportation field.

The "gimme a ride" contingent, numerous in every heavily traveled street and thoroughfare, has grown to the proportions of annoyance and a menace to motorists, according to many car owners. The latter are perfectly prepared to cooperate with traction interests in abating this nuisance. The American motorist is notoriously unselfish in sharing his machine with wayfarers. The majority of them want to be "good fellows," but they are becoming resentful at being imposed upon.

Makes Holdups Easy

This attitude has been strengthened by the number of holdups and robberies which chance pickups have perpetrated, the more easily since the driver, with his hands on the steering wheel, has been thoroughly at their mercy. In addition, some of these riders, who have been injured in accidents unavoidable in automobile traffic, have attempted to hold their hosts responsible.

The practice of dispensing free rides in sections also served by bus, taxi and electric railway lines undoubtedly has hurt the profits of companies engaged in operating these facilities and is directly responsible in some cases for urgent demands for fare increases which have been felt by the whole community, including the motorists.

The traction men take the stand that the great majority of those who ask so freely for lifts from motorists would resent keenly the implication that they would beg for or even cents for a ride on the street car, although their requests result in taking that sum from the gross receipts of the company, if the motorist is complaisant and picks them up.

Fall to Express Thanks

So extensive has the habit of begging rides become that such service in some cases is almost demanded as a right. One wealthy woman resident of Long Island who enjoys driving her own car said today that of all the hundreds of boys and girls she has picked up and given lifts, only one said "thank you."

The habit is not confined to the poor, or needy. Students at Eastern universities are bragging they can ride free over practically any service in the country and have become so accustomed to being granted these favors in the neighborhood of New York, Philadelphia, New Haven and Boston that they feel aggrieved if the ride is not terminated by an invitation to luncheon or dinner.

Increase in Rates

It was further pointed out by traction experts that the public at large was beginning to realize by commissions and other official bodies that riders must pay the whole cost of the service no matter what that might be and that as a result of this "cost of service" policy fares are up all over the country.

From a rate of 5.09 cents in 1919 the average fare has risen above 7.33 cents at present and there is every indication that more increases are in the offing.

One-fifth of the people of Italy are unable to obtain the use of electricity.

PLEDGE SUPPORT IN DEFENSE DAY

California Legion Officers Wire Endorsement of Plan to Coolidge

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—State officers of the American Legion, riled by the protests which have come into local headquarters against the participation of the ex-service men's organization in the Defense Day observances, have sent out another stinging rebuke to individuals and organizations opposing the celebration September 12.

State Commander Nathan F. Coombs and State Adjutant James K. Fisk have swept the protests into the Legion waste basket and have telegraphed President Coolidge that the California Legion is behind him to a man in his wish for the observance of Defense Day. The following wire was sent to the president:

"California American Legion posts are prepared to dedicate September 12 as Defense Day in accordance with your recent proclamation. As state officers of the American Legion, Department of California, we again pledge to you the support of California Legionnaires in the furtherance of your plans for National Defense Day. This action is taken in accordance with the defense test resolution unanimously and vigorously adopted by the American Legion at its recent state convention and calls upon the governor of this state to designate the 12th of September, 1924, for such observances as may be proper under the proclamation."

"The World war taught us that every man, woman and child in the United States should be prepared to put in order. Preparedness makes for better living, more economy in government, state and city, in business and in homes; it teaches unselfishness, and, above all, self-sacrifice."

NATHAN F. COOMBS, State Commander.
JAMES K. FISK, State Adjutant.

TOBACCO—No. 4

What is the cause of the tobacco habit? The same thing that causes any habit, the repetition of the act. In the case of drugs such as morphine, alcohol and tobacco (and even the milder drugs of tea and coffee) there is also the gradual accustoming of the tissue cells to the special action of the drug, so that they suffer upon the withdrawal of it. The smoking habit is partly a muscle habit. The lips become accustomed to holding the cigarette, cigar or pipe, and sucking on it, just the same as the baby gets the habit of sucking on a pacifier or his thumb, and the hand also becomes habituated to holding the tobacco carrier.

The men of the Balkan and the adjacent states, especially Greece, Turkey and Arabia, carry short strings of beads between their fingers with which they constantly play. This is a muscle habit. This and the habit of twiddling chairs or coin jingling are comparable to the smoking habit, less the harmful effects of the drug.

Harry Carr says: "Your mouth tastes rotten, the cigarette worse, you swear you will never smoke again, and then you are back again, taking another one while you are swearing off. And there you are, smoking again!"

It has been my observation that those who inhale really have the longing for tobacco more intensely than those who do not inhale, even though they have both smoked the same length of time. As I told you in one of the previous papers, the smoker who inhales gets eight times as much nicotine as the non-inhaler; therefore, presuming they smoke the same amount, the poisonous effects theoretically will be eight times as great in the inhaler. But people vary in their susceptibility to the poison, thus the one who does not inhale might have just as much poisoning as the one who does inhale, if he were more susceptible.

Is there anything to be said in favor of smoking? No, I'm afraid not. According to an article I read in a certain health magazine, some experiments carried on by Professor C. M. Hull, of the University of Wisconsin, demonstrated that the average adult smoker is five per cent more efficient after smoking than before. If you did not know his further tests, you would construe this as a fact in favor of smoking, but let me tell you of the other tests. Students who had not long been addicted to the use of tobacco were tested and found to be five per cent less efficient than before. What conclusion do we get from these contradictory effects? This: that the adult smoker is Used Kellogg's Bran 2 months—constipation gone after suffering 3 years

Three years of suffering with constipation. What happiness was his when Kellogg's Bran, cooked and crumbled, restored his health. But read his letter.

"Dear Sirs:—This is what I think of your crumbled Bran. I would not be without it for anything in the world. For three years I used all kinds of medicines for constipation, and only got temporary relief. I was advised by a doctor to use Kellogg's Bran, and since I have been using it I don't have to take pills or anything else. I have used it two months, and my constipation has left me. I feel better, now than I have for three years."

GRAIN INCREASE BOON TO FARMERS

Present Marketing Methods Keep Prices Up When Needed, Is Claim

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—General Farm Depression has marched his private worries down in the valley of recuperation to recover from the recent battle with supply and demand, who have been aided by Mrs. Nature, according to a constant flow of reports to the grain markets, it was declared by Samuel P. Arnot, executive vice-president of the Chicago Board of Trade.

The grin on the farmer's face isn't there because he pasture the fence down in the back pasture lot menard; it's there because corn is up to the point where it pays to plow and because the price of wheat is more than a whisper—and it is there to stay for the rest of the year, claims Arnot.

DAVIS SUPPORTS WILSON'S IDEALS

Democratic Candidate Says He Will Do Best to Emulate Record

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
For International News Service.
CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Flying the banner of Wilsonian ideals, John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, was entrenched here today in a determined drive for political control of the agricultural west. The nominee's first act on his invasion of the west was to elevate the standard of Woodrow Wilson.

"If I am elected, I will do my best to emulate the great record of Woodrow Wilson," Davis declared. The Democratic party under Wilson gave this nation more beneficial legislation than any other administration in history. It gave the nation an administration free from corruption and scandal and an administration that raised American prestige through the world to a greater height than ever before."

It was with this tribute to Wilson that Davis began his drive for votes among the farmers and business men of the wheat and corn belts. He planned to keynote it throughout the tour.

Labor Day Address
The nominee reached Chicago this morning from Wheeling, W. Va., where he delivered a Labor day address. The speech there definitely ranked him as a liberal in labor policies. In it he heartily endorsed the anti-child labor amendment, voluntary wage agreements and the establishment of hours and conditions of labor by contract instead of by law. He also condemned the Esch-Cummins law, the railroad board and the use of injunctions in strikes—all policies urged by Labor leaders.

Davis planned to remain in the vicinity of Chicago until Friday evening when he will face the west for a two-weeks' tour of the corn and wheat belts. Only preliminary arrangements for the trip have been completed, Davis having left all details to be settled at a conference here with Lincoln Dixon of Indiana, his western campaign manager, and other mid-western Democratic chieftains.

Hope to Settle Water Rights at Conference

CHAPTER XII.

Hilary looked at Konrad, who was talking animatedly, and said his name to herself, as she might have put out her finger, as a child, to receive an electric current. With the name the strange new feeling shook her again; her heart soared and seemed to float above her body; she wanted to laugh, to cry, to stay forever sitting so, breathing the soft, airless warmth of the dying day, and the rich heavy odor of the wall-flowers and the dusty peaches. A delicious languor ran in her veins, and all the world seemed for a few beautiful minutes as it had seemed to her when she was a child, seemed simple and fascinating, and without fear. She remembered the first arrival at this house, with her father and mother, long ago; Dora was a big, serious baby in a shabby little blue coat then. Hilary's mother had given her bread and milk on the doorstep, in a real French peasant fashion, and Hilary felt tonight that she had never lost that child's simple reliance on bread and milk, or pleasure in coming from the grimy city to this sweet open place.

"What is the matter with me tonight?" she asked herself, coming back to a sober study of Konrad sitting there in the dusk. He was only a clumsy, big, delightful peasant, in spite of his genius, but she liked him so much. He was a sweet boy, she told herself, and the pity of it was that they would spoil him, all the silly women who flocked after him, and probably he would marry one more bold and less scrupulous than the rest, and so spoil his whole life!

"But come, if you're only an hour, aren't we going to have some music?" she demanded. Konrad shrugged rebelliously. "I am perfectly happy!" he protested.

"You come straight to the piano," Hilary decreed, rising, and holding out her hand. He took it, smiling as they went into the warm dark house.

"Yes, Mother, I will be a good child," he said, obediently. The sudden candlelight revealed her smiling approval at him, and the instant he touched the Amati she knew there would be no further demur. "Ah, what hands—what hands!" he cried, as the first fiery rush of notes echoed through the old room; "why cannot I take those hands of yours with me wherever I go! Come, I obey you. What are we to play?"

Hilary, always in serious earnest at the piano, answered only with a nod of her coppery crown toward the music-rest; they were off upon an ecstatic flight of sound, Konrad's pale face shining in the candlelight as he bent over her shoulder, Hilary's beautiful mouth tense, her blue eyes flashing like sapphires.

When they had finished their both burst into a great relieved shout of laughter; Konrad frankly wiped forehead and throat with a big silk handkerchief, his eyes never once leaving the piano.

"Please—please!" Hilary whispered then, breathing like a runner. They began the second movement, and Dora saw Konrad's lips twitching under the upturning moustaches as his bow twitched.

Dora and Craig were in the gloom of the wide-opened window, seated upon its broad sill. Dora was silent, her eyes upon the players. Craig watched the street, where listening forms were gathering, and presently turned to Hilary, making tonight for the first time a certain discovery about her.

"Butterfly temperamental!" he murmured. "Why, it's Hilary who is the genius. And she's—by George, she is beautiful."

She was always at her prettiest at the piano, anyway; there was a sureness, a dash and brilliance, about her. And tonight, her white fingers racing with Konrad's bow, her exquisite color flaming against her white skin, and with the candlelight touching her crown of hair, she was actually lovely. Craig noticed for the hundredth time the clean line of her rounded chin with its hint of a cleft, and the purity of the white, rounded throat. How she had flung herself into this music; there was something inspiring in the mere sight of it.

"Lord, Lord," thought Craig, almost a little shocked at the rush of passionate sound, "she's asleep now. But if she ever fell in love—"

The music ended upon tremendous and marching chords; Hilary let the last one die into perfect silence; Konrad's head, flung back for the last long-drawn note, dropped forward again, he gently laid down the violin, and Dora, wondering, saw that her sister's eyes were brimming with tears.

"Ah, Konrad—that was music!" Hilary faltered, smiling. "Bravo!" he said. He had taken off his coat, for the evening was insufferably close, and now he took her hand, and laid it upon the thin, soaked silk of his shirt.

MURPHY'S COMEDIANS

"The Girl in the Case," a George M. Cohan play that achieved wide publicity throughout the east, is now making a big hit at the tent theatre of Mahurin's Players (Murphy's Comedians), in Casa Verdugo, at the corner of Central avenue and Stocker street, where the curtain rises nightly at 8 o'clock.

As its name might suggest, "The Girl in the Case" is a comedy melodrama, full of laughs and equally full of thrills. Horace Murphy, manager of these players, has discovered that this laugh-thrill combination is hard to beat as an audience getter. J. A. Menard, house manager of the Casa Verdugo, declares that the tent is packed every night now and that the only sure way of seeing the show is to come early.

"Hard!" he exclaimed, with boyish pride. "Oh, Konrad, you enfant terrible!" Hilary reproved him, with her motherly laugh. Dora had gone to the piano, and now she picked up the violin with an expectant look. But Kronski, still panting, shook his head.

"No more—no more! We must not spoil the perfect thing!" he said, twirling vigorously with his handkerchief. Dora, looking a little surprised, a little hurt, came slowly back to the circle, and sat in the chair beside him, Craig had gone out, with his usual brotherly concern for the comfort of them all, to find some ginger ale.

But Hilary, as she herself sank into a seat, saw in the soft candlelight that Dora's soft little hand dropped against Kronski's and curled there as if it had found a resting place it loved.

And then she knew. It was all suddenly clear. This was the explanation of Hilary's serenity, her sweetness, her silence. She had been dreaming of Kronski, all this domestic, contented summer. Hilary had been the subtle complacency of the secretly loved woman; it had been the memory of Kronski that had kept Dora happy through the blazing mid-summer cruises in the car!

She looked at Dora, at Craig with his honest, handsome, intelligent face, bent earnestly over the ice and the glasses, and at Kronski, the big, clumsy, lean, eager man, with his boyish rages, his boyish vanity, his boyish eagerness for affection. He was rude sometimes, he was greedy and im-

THE GATEWAY

Colleen Moore, chic star in "The Perfect Flapper," showing at the Gateway Theatre today for the last times, declares that she got the thrill of her life standing on Pass-a-Grille, Florida, while a hurricane was raging on the Gulf of Mexico.

"It was a terrible and terrifying experience," says Miss Moore in describing it. "The waves came rolling in like billows, lashing themselves over the island in slathers of snowy foam. They rushed and gurgled about the slender stilts upon which the cottages were perched and beat about the foundations of the hotel."

"I was scared green, but there was no way to leave the island, so we stuck it out. But if I ever again feel the need of a real thrill of true terror, I shall go down to Pass-a-Grille, wait for a storm and revel in oodles and oodles of fear."

Miss Moore got some more thrills, however, in a scene atop a moving house in "The Perfect Flapper," which is said to be one of the most spectacular scenes ever filmed. John Francis Dillon directed the picture, which contains a superlative cast including Phyllis Haver, Sydney Chaplin, Frank Mayo, Lydia Knott, Charles Wellesley and others.

patient sometimes, he was rarely reasonable.

Yes, but he was Kronski. And Hilary fancied that it was a maternal emotion that made her eyes a little dim as she smiled at him, and her throat a little thick. He was too sweet, too oddly pathetic and helpless for life to spoil and ill-treat. He had called her "Mother," and had said that he would obey her! Nice boy that he was!

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE DOLL'S EYES

Susie Littleall, the cute rabbit girl, who was a sister to Sammie, hopped over the seashore sandy beach to the driftwood bungalow of Uncle Wiggily Longears. The rabbit gentleman was just starting out to seek for an adventure.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Uncle Wiggily!" cried Susie. "Look! See! Isn't it terrible!" She held out her doll toward Mr. Longears.

The rabbit gentleman tilted his head to one side, shook a little sand off one paw, smiled and said:

"Um, yes, Susie. I guess she is terribly pretty, if that is what you mean," said Uncle Wiggily. "Only I wouldn't use such a word of 'terribly,' if I were you. You shouldn't say your doll is terribly pretty! It isn't good form."

"I didn't say she was terribly pretty!" and by this time Susie was sobbing.

"Then perhaps you meant she had on a terribly pretty dress," proceeded the bunny gentleman. "That is almost as bad. The red dress on your doll is quite stylish. I should say, but hardly terribly pretty."

"Oh, you don't understand at all!" and Susie cried out loud. "I didn't say she had on a terribly pretty dress! I mean something terrible and dreadful has happened. Look! My dollie hasn't any eyes!"

Susie fairly shouted these words and Uncle Wiggily gave a jump. He was so surprised.

"Your doll has no eyes?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "What do you mean?" for he could now see only two holes where the bright, blue, china eyes of the doll had formerly been.

"My doll's eyes fell out when I was giving her a little shaking," answered Susie. "Here they are," and in her paw she held out the doll's eyes.

"Why did you shake Claribell Janet Macgillicuddy?" asked Uncle Wiggily for the rabbit Janet Macgillicuddy was the doll's name.

"I shook Claribell Janet Macgillicuddy because she was naughty," cried Susie, "but she wasn't naughty enough for me to shake her eyes out, and I'm so sorry—oh, dear! Boo-hoo!"

Susie nearly cried her own eyes out.

"Never mind," said kind Uncle Wiggily. "I'll get some glue and glue back in Claribell Janet Macgillicuddy her blue china eyes. Then she will be as fine as ever."

"Oh, goodie, goodie, goodie!" cried Susie, now smiling. So Uncle Wiggily bought a bottle of glue at the drug store and he sat down beside a woodland path to fix the doll's eyes. Susie sat beside him near by. The bottle of glue tipped over, he tipped the bottle of glue near by, he tipped the bottle of glue over while Uncle Wiggily was working, but he didn't mind that.

Then, all of a sudden, when the doll's eyes were almost glued back in her face, the old Sea Lobster came crawling along, howling:

"I want to nibble some ears!"

"Just sit down on that stump!"

DEPORTATION OF FIRPO IS THREAT SPLIT DOUBLE AS SERIES ENDED

Labor Department Officials
Take Action; New Probe
May Stop Fight

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Action by labor department officials of New York looking to the possible deportation of Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine prize fighter, was ordered today by the department of labor.

Canon Chase of New York renewed today before the department of labor his demand for Firpo's deportation.

Chase predicted Firpo would be called before the immigration officials at Ellis Island tomorrow to undergo a new examination and that he would be deported before his scheduled fight with Harry Wills.

By FORD C. FRICK
For International News Service.
SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Luis Angel Firpo is a changed man.

The cave man has suddenly turned Chesterfield; the Neanderthal is counting the graces. It's too bad.

As a cave man, Luis Angel Firpo had color and personality and dynamic force. As an advertised racial throw-back to some forgotten age of primitive being, he had distinction and pomp and primitive shrewdness.

But, too close contact with American ways and a too easy accumulation of American dollars have spoiled him. Personality has become temperance and dynamic force has changed to childish petulance.

Wants White Lights
There's none of the "man of destiny" waiting for fate to crown him champion of the Argentine today. He's just a kid, moping in the corner, pining for the white lights and the glamor of Broadway.

For a cave man and a Neanderthal, Luis has learned his lesson very quickly, indeed.

He's only a homesick kid, wearied of the routine of camp life, sickened with the boredom of still nights and whispering pine trees; a bit unnerved by the long hours of utter idleness that bring their nightmare of legal entanglements and Canon Chases to hover over him.

It's too bad.
But, unless this writer misses his guess entirely, it will take the combined efforts of Tex Rickard, Frank Flounoy and all the Firpo backers to keep the erstwhile cave man in camp until time for the Wills fight.

Issues Warning
He wants Broadway and the white lights and he has given notice that he intends to clear out and finish his personal pride demands revenge. Wills is a stone in his path of progress and must be removed.

And once in the ring, with the smell of blood in his nostrils and the grind of resin beneath his feet, he's the same old Firpo.

BASEBALL QUESTION BOX
If you have some question to ask about baseball, write to the editor of the Evening News, 811 World Building, New York.

QUESTION—If a team is dissatisfied with the umpiring can they substitute one of their own umpires, throwing out the home umpire?
ANSWER—No. That is not permissible. Very likely it would end in a riot.

QUESTION—Did Kometchey ever play in a world series?
ANSWER—He played first base for Brooklyn in the world series of 1920.

QUESTION—Runner is on third. One hand is out. Pitcher is about to throw but balks. He then throws the ball but when it is going to the catcher the umpire says balk. Batter flies the ball to third. Then the catcher touches the base. Is the batter or the runner out?
ANSWER—Neither. The umpire called a balk. The runner scores and the batter hits again.

WHITE SOX DROP BATTLE TO STARS

Sawyer's Failure to Replace
Russell Early Causes
Glendale to Lose

Failure of Boss Sawyer of the Glendale White Sox to yank Lefty Russell in the fourth inning of yesterday's game against the Colored All-Stars gave the contest to the visitors by a score of 3 to 4.

Three runs off Russell in the fourth, followed by two runs in the fifth, sewed up the game for the All-Stars and the White Sox, behind Mike Fife, could not overtake them.

Fife was called to the mound after two men were down and a hole in third. He pulled out of the hole, held the visitors' scoreless in the sixth, was touched for one hit and one run in the seventh, struck out two men at top of the list in the eighth with a runner on third and another on second, and was touched for a run in the ninth, when Howard tripled and came home on Evans' drive, which hopped over Hirtogoyen's head.

"Slowtime" Evans hurled for nine hits, three of them being five base bingles. Evans walked five men and struck out three. Russell fanned two in four and two-thirds innings, and Fife fanned four in four and one-third innings.

Asleep at Third
Possibility of another score for the Glendale team in the seventh inning went glimmering when Sawyer pulled his now famous sleep-walking scene on third base. Young hit to left, but was forced at second by Hirtogoyen, Hirtogoyen taking second when Hines overthrew first in an attempt to make a double. Dorman tripled, scoring Hirtogoyen. Sawyer doubled, scoring Dorman, and went to third on Shellenbach's single through Hines. Shields hit a pop-up to Evans and Sawyer was caught a long ways off third on a double play.

Sawyer was handed a large package of "razz" by the fans, who had not forgotten his failure to protest Sunday's contest, when Hirtogoyen was sent back to third base in the first inning, which would have prevented a fourteen-run game, nor his sleep-walking scene in the sixth inning of the game against the Navy champions.

Krohn, baseball and football star of Centre college, played a good game in right field, grabbing off four long drives. His only slip came in the ninth, when he dropped Evans' Texas leaguer. He got two hits, was walked once and got on first through an error of Ruddlees.

STATE HIGHWAYS NEED $20,000,000

Road Construction Demands
Huge Yearly Sum, Says
Expert Engineer

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—State Highway demands necessitate an income of not less than $20,000,000 per annum, according to a report issued by the State Highway Commission. Of this sum $12,000,000 is needed for new construction and $8,000,000 for maintenance.

"This sum," said State Engineer R. M. Morton, "must be considered the minimum when the refinancing of state highway construction is undertaken."

Fourteen county seats in California are still without state-built roads and the state is without a single completed interstate connection, it is declared. Forty per cent of the designated state highway, 2,814 miles, remains uncompleted.

During the present year, the highway commission will expend $4,500,000 receipts from the gasoline tax in rebuilding old pavements. Reconstruction is far behind traffic requirements, and $10,000,000 a year for several years must be used for this purpose, said the state engineer.

Even more serious, according to Engineer Morton, is the need for funds for new construction. Bond issues aggregating $73,000,000 have been expended and approximately 1500 miles provided for in the bond acts of 1918 and 1919 are yet unimproved.

If the present rate of progress is maintained a minimum of $20,000,000 is necessary, it is said, and expenditure of a much larger appropriation in order to hasten new construction is advised.

Let's Keep Those Fat Bonuses in Glendale

True, it's not very dignified for a company specializing, like Royalties Investment Company, in the finance of real estate, loans and home-building, to talk about fat bonuses.

By the same token, however, it's not very profitable to Glendale to permit the thousands of dollars annually taken in the form of bonuses on loans to depart forever for parts unknown.

Let's keep these bonuses right here in Glendale. Let's participate in them by investing our surplus money in Glendale enterprise. Let's lend our moral and financial support to every worth-while undertaking that obviously has the interest of Glendale concurrent with its own interest.

The one big way to stop the flow of bonus money FROM Glendale is to support Glendale Banks, Glendale Building and Loan Companies, Glendale Merchants and such specialty realty finance companies as Royalties Investment Company.

Ownership in the Royalties Investment Company is still possible as long as the limited balance of common stock now offered for subscription by this Company is available.

Frog Legs Are Given
Place on Fair Menu
SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—Things are on the "jump" at the State Fair! That is figuratively speaking, and literally on the "jump" at the big San Joaquin County display for the famous "jumping frog" of Calaveras fame. "Jumping frog" has yielded the palm to tens of thousands of "frying size" bullfrogs, that spell their dulcet B-flat serenades on the watery reaches of the San Joaquin.

Confined in a temporary aquarium, near the big San Joaquin potato, may be seen a dozen "bullfrogs" of the species that tickle the Eastern gourmand's palate. They are monsters and still not yet fully grown. Several years ago, San Joaquin imported a papa and mama bullfrog from the Chesapeake Bay region, and today in San Joaquin their name is legion. Down in Stockton "froglegs" are on the menu for breakfast, dinner and supper. San Joaquin Chamber of Commerce is preparing a new circular, on "San Joaquin," a Bullfrog Paradise, and out from the depths of Horticultural Hall comes the echo "Burr-um-burr-um-burr-um!"

The Senators had to stay in high gear to beat the Athletics twice, 5 to 3 and 4 to 3, preserving their lead of a game and a half.

The Tigers swamped the White Sox in the morning game, 16 to 5, but in the afternoon game succumbed in the matinee, 10 to 2.

BOY SCOUTS TELL OF CAMPING TRIP

Lads Back From Sierras
Where They Hike, Fish
And Cook Meals

The beauties of the High Sierras are being praised by the party of first-class Boy Scouts from Glendale, Burbank, Eagle Rock, La Crescenta, Tujunga and Montrose, who, with their leaders, arrived home Saturday from an eleven-day outing near Mt. Whitney.

Harvey R. Cheesman, local Scout executive, who led the party, says of the trip:

"I demonstrated the practical nature of the training received by the boys in their progress through the Boy Scout program of character development and citizenship training. Throughout the trip the boys showed themselves to be real Scouts, cooking for themselves, making their wilderness beds out of pine boughs and packing their grub and blankets over many a mountain mile. Every one of the happy, sunburned boys who arrived home Saturday reports a wonderful time, with emphasis on excellent trout fishing. The total catch for the party of twenty-two Scouts was 503 trout, some measuring fifteen inches."

Amid High Peaks
Leaving Glendale by truck the boys traveled a day and a half, making camp at Grey's Meadows, near Independence. After the second day there they went over the Kearsarge pass, 11,830 feet high, and pitched camp on the banks of one of the tributaries of the King's river in the heart of the highest mountains in the United States. Mr. Cheesman says of this location:

"Great, towering mountain peaks rose on every hand; the pine trees whispered in the night breezes and the roaring trout stream sang the boys to sleep."

The next day after pitching this camp the pack mules and horses were sent back up the trail to Independence, leaving the Scouts to depend on their own backs to pack their belongings out of the mountains again.

Around Blazing Fire
Two days were spent in resting and fishing at this site. Mr. Cheesman gives the following account of the camp:

"Each evening around the blazing campfire, surrounded by the dark forest of murmuring pines, the boys gathered to tell fish stories and discuss the adventure of the day. Eagle Scout Homer Reed won first place by totaling a catch of fifty-four trout for the trip. Frank Ayars, chairman of the Boy Scout camping committee, and Deputy Scout Commissioner McNary came in close seconds by rolling up high scores. The most pleasing result of this good luck was that every one had all the trout he could eat during most of the trip."

The rest of the stay in the mountains was spent exploring some twenty different mountain lakes. These lakes were most beautiful in their setting of snow-capped mountain peaks and dark green pine forests. The Scouts had a great time swimming, fishing and making rafts.

Find Ice in August
"Excellent fishing was had in a number of the lakes. The lake trout fishing was found to be much livelier sport than the stream fishing, especially when a big fellow took the hook. The boys also got quite a kick out of exploring banks of snow and ice in August, bringing some of it down to camp to add to the noon lunch lemonade."

"All the Scouts are most enthusiastic over the trip and are already planning the trip for next summer, which will be even more adventuresome than this year. This great adventure for next summer will be a trip across the High Sierras from the desert and Owens valley to the giant Sequoias at Gen. Grant National park, coming out in San Joaquin valley. This will inspire our Boy Scout troop to do his best to attain the rank of first-class by next summer."

Members of Party
The party this year included Harvey R. Cheesman, Scout executive; F. C. Ayars, chairman of Scout camp committee; Charles Kausen; James McNary, deputy scout commissioner.

Homer Reed, Troop 5, Glendale, and Bernum Warner, Troop 2, Glendale, Eagle Scouts.

COMMENT That's All

'The Full Dinner Pail' Confidence and Prosperity Proposed Law Dangerous Register! Register!

By Gil A. Cowan

Beyond doubt President Coolidge has adopted the most successful policy for re-election one might desire—that of "the full dinner pail."

Assurances of prosperity, based on knowledge given him by the various executive departments, will be welcomed by the nation, and particularly the Pacific coast.

Confidence in the future will beget confidence in Coolidge, the political observers will point out, and with a master hand the president has delivered a challenge to opposing candidates' claims which they will have difficulty in meeting.

"The full dinner pail" means much to the American public. Eating well is a merit and a fault, alike. No diet of fish or porridge or potatoes or rice for workmen or others in these United States. Everyone lives on the fat of the land, and pays the price, both in money and health.

Fact is, most of us eat too much. We are blasé in our tastes. One look at an American table and you would imagine it a Swedish feast, although the food would savor of England, Germany, France and Italy, served in Russian style.

French chefs claim that Americans do not like dainties; they do not like special little dishes; but they do like great, big, heaping platefuls of rich food.

All of which makes it more clear why President Coolidge has hit America's one weak spot in his political appeal for "the full dinner pail."

It is understood that a constitutional amendment will be introduced at the next session of the California legislature which will provide for the doubling of the present tenure of elective county officers.

Writer sees a danger in such a law. Unlike city officials, the county supervisors, district attorney and judges are almost impossible to reach through recall. In a measure they are amenable to no one, and in numerous instances of the past county officers have abused the trust placed in them.

Particularly in Los Angeles county and San Francisco city and county would it be advisable to have some method of defeating oligarchical plans on the part of any small group of supervisors. To extend their tenure of office would lead to impossible conditions. Assemblymen and senators from Los Angeles county will do well to fight this amendment. It is a joker.

And when such issues as these are before the electorate, are you registered so that you may express an opinion on the subject? At the November 4 election there will be several initiative measures. Unless you are REGISTERED there will be no need for you to criticize the defeat or passage of these bills.

The Glendale Evening News is going to keep on urging the registration of voters, not only for the national election, but for the coming bond election as well. The citizenry of Glendale is too high class to judge the duty of voting. And that's that.

RAIN, REAL RAIN, FALLS! IT'S TRUE!

Very Unusual Weather for Southern California, Everybody Admits

Genuine raindrops fell from the suddenly overcast sky at Tweedy lake yesterday afternoon, startling the crowd gathered at a barbecue on the grounds of the gun club there, reports R. K. Snow of 609 North Maryland avenue, who, with his two daughters, the Misses Nancy and Marjorie Snow, were among the 50 guests present.

While some of the members and their friends hiked over the knoll from which the Antelope valley and the Mojave desert are surveyed 4000 feet below, others, led by Ralph B. Greef of Highland park, Los Angeles, president of the Tweedy Lake club, went out with shotguns and brought in lim strings of doves, taking advantage of the just opened season.

Incidentally, it rained in Glendale yesterday. But it took good eyesight to recognize the rain—and it didn't last long. However, it rained—very unusual weather.

HUGE FRUIT CROP

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—The state department of agriculture's last figures indicate that the California fruit crop will net farmers about $15,000,000 more than last year's, totaling $176,345,000. The vegetable crop is estimated to exceed that of 1923 by $4,300,000.

Thousands of pairs of gloves made in Italy are sent to France or England each year for minor retouches, in many cases merely the application of the foreign stamp or trade mark, and shipped back to Italy to be sold as imported goods.

SEPTEMBER BEST MONTH TO PLANT

Nursery Crowded on Opening Day of Sale; Rosebush Given With Order

The logical time to plant nursery stock in Southern California is during September, declared G. Edwin Murphy, proprietor of the Brand Boulevard Nursery of 421 North Brand boulevard. Mr. Murphy, who has had years of experience in handling nursery stock, planting and caring for lawns and large landscape jobs, is giving Glendale property owners the value of his experience. In order that the people of Glendale might have an opportunity to get acquainted with the nursery stock carried at the North Brand boulevard address, Mr. Murphy inaugurated last Saturday a Giant-Get-Acquainted sale. For the opening day Mr. Murphy offered a rosebush free with every purchase of $3.50.

There were so many persons who came Saturday and could not get waited upon, that I have decided to continue the free rosebush offer during the balance of the week, when the sale will be on," Mr. Murphy said. "Our nursery was packed from morning to night and we found it impossible to take care of everybody."

Crowds Are Large
Sunday many persons called to look over the plants, but we have a firm rule here that no goods will be sold on Sunday. Yesterday being a holiday, the crowd was not so large, but people visited the nursery throughout the day. "We are not going out of business. This sale is just for the purpose of increasing our large list of customers and to get acquainted with the people of Glendale and vicinity. The first day of the sale indicated that we would add many customers to our list, and today is starting out as good as today."

CEDAR FOR JAPAN

PORTLAND, Sept. 2.—K. and C. Yamamoto, Osaka, Japan, owners of three large saw mills, there, have placed a big order for cedar logs and squares with the White Cedar Company of Bandon, Oregon.

'Y' Secretary

REX C. KELLEY points out the advantages of and the need for the proposed $275,000 Y. M. C. A. building in Glendale.

The strategic importance of Glendale in the growth of southern California, and the fastest growing city in America should challenge our citizens to meet the needs of the boys and young men, says Rex C. Kelley, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A. for the past five years, in commenting on the coming campaign, September 16 to 23, to raise a fund of $275,000 for a Y. M. C. A. building.

"The boys and young men of the world are coming to southern California the same as the adults," said Secretary Kelley, "and the need of dormitories is constantly increasing in Glendale to provide a home for the young men who are pouring into our city fully expecting to find living quarters at the Association building."

Would Provide Home
The dormitory feature in the completed plant would provide a home for many young men away from home until they get established. An attractive lobby would furnish a home-like and friendly atmosphere for the lonely boy.

"A modern equipped gymnasium and swimming pool, says Mr. Kelley, would give not only the young men, but the business men, an opportunity for their

"Civic pride for a bigger and better Glendale should inspire our citizens in raising the $275,000 to make possible the building of an attractive association home. Our interest and provision for the welfare of the boys must keep pace with the growth of the community."
